or
Belle Glade's Wandering Post Office
1917-1962

By L. E. Will and Rosa A. Nash

It is inconceivable that 72 years after Florida was admitted to Statehood and 57 years after famous Pony Express Mail Service, that the pioneers who brewed swamps, snakes, alligators and alligators in the Glades area, were only receiving mail twice a week — and that by boat from Ft. Myers! Later the service was changed and mail came from Ft. Lauderdale.

It all began on the shores of Torrey Island where Emmett McLaughlin had his fish camp on a creek which wound through the swamp on the island's south end. The islands and the newly exposed lake bottom between what is now the Hillsboro Canal and South Bay was attracting settlers, so in 1916 Howard Stowe built a store across the creek from the fish camp and on March 31, 1917 he opened a postoffice there.

There doesn't seem to be any known record of his being credited as the postmaster, however, and Uncle Sam didn't seem to be too particular at that time about conditions for a post office, including names for two of these settlements which were just called "Hillsboro Canal Settlement."

THE NEW...

Belle Glade's new modern, air conditioned and centrally heated post office has an area of 5660 square feet which includes the loading ramp, and maneuvering area of 7190 square feet. The interior work space includes modern eagles service counters, two offices, store room, three restrooms, janitor's closet and mechanical room. The service lobby boasts eight new box sections with parcelling to match and is open 24 hours a day. Over half of the equipment in the office is new and the balance has been painted to match. Construction was by Gaines of Miami at an estimated cost of approximately $80,000.00.

Politics & Pork With Glades Corn To Greet Jaycees

Congressman Paul Rogers as guest speaker for the Jaycees' Eighth District Caucus Sunday, October 21st, to be held at the Belle Glade Country Club, is expected to be greeted by some 300 representatives from sixteen South Florida clubs.

Following a busy day of official group conferences, eating, social activities by the ladies and park entertainment for the children, the business session will open at 3:00 p. m. with State Vice-President Frank H. Foster, Jr., Presiding.

State Chairman Milt Kringle will lead the discussion of "Records and Recognition," one of the district policies and proposed actions to be considered by the organizations at its fall meeting.

Mr. Rogers will appear at the Jaycees' meeting following his participation in the dedication of Belle Glade's new postoffice.

Baby Pig ribs and approximately 1,000 ears of Glades' unmatched sweet corn, with "fixins" are being prepared for the caucus.

Belle Glade Jaycees have travelled near 2,000 miles, under the chairmanship of Jim Chiofalo throughout the district, promoting Belle Glade, it is reported.

If this is not the biggest caucus ever held in the district with Congressman Rogers, baby pig ribs and corn, plus employment and comfort for the wives and families, ten Belle Glade Jaycees will be disappointed.

Four Top Place Conference Teams Will Compete In Games Friday Night

One of the high spots of the season is on tap Friday night for Suncoast Conference fans when the pennant-favored outfits from Lake Worth and defending champion invade the gridirons at Belle Glade and Pahokee.

These four teams hold down the top four places in the conference standings today with both Glades area teams being surprisingly strong so far. But this week both face a vital test before home audiences in the features of a six-game Suncoast card. Pahokee has won only one Suncoast football title in the league's 13 years. Belle Glade none, and this week's results probably will be the "make-or-break" type for both clubs.

Seacrest, 3-1-1 over-all, visits Belle Glade which is 5-0 and still unscathed upon for the best half-season record in the school history. Lake Worth, 4-0 and not yet keenly pressed by an opponent, calls on Pahokee which had a jaw-dropping four-game win streak clipped last week at Ft. Pierce.

In two other league matches, winless Clewiston visits a listing Forest Hill team and equally winless Riviera Beach travels to face rebounding Ft. Pierce. After going scoreless in their first three starts, the Eagles have about faced to win two straight and doubtless will be extremely hard to equal in this last half of the season. A pair of non-league matches include Palm Beach and Ft.

Civilians Told Communications Air Defense News

At today's meeting, Civilians will learn more about the important role of communications in air defense. The program will be led by J. D. "Pete" McClellan, local Southern Bell Manager.

Highlight of the luncheon meeting will be a direct line phone connection with NORAD Headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Civilians will participate in a question and answer session with a briefing officer for the North-American Air Defense Command located at this nerve center of continental air defense.

New Civilians Daddy Dick Murray and Jim Winchester, welcomed as new members last week have already been berthed on the active Claxton Flyer Cake Committee.

In 1904, Thomas Jefferson said:

"Man may be governed by reason and truth. Our first object should therefore, be to leave open to him all the avenues to truth. The most effectual hitherto found is the freedom of the press."

Andrew Hamilton convinced a jury in November 228 years ago that a German-born newspaper publisher, John Zinger's accusation against the Governor were TRUE and therefore not libelous.

That day the "Fourth Estate" — the link between the legislative judicial and executive branches and the people — took its most significant stride into the destiny of a free America.

This week Americans are celebrating this ideal with NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK. This basic freedom enjoyed by Americans is of equal if not of more importance today.

The census shows that nearly 100 million Americans live in crossroads, hamlets, towns and cities of less than 25,000 population. The small town newspapers are actually the basic advertising medium of these 99-million plus residents.

People are our stock in trade — local people — and we like to write good things about them.

We know that democracy, as we understand it, has existed only a moment in measured history. Only a few people of the earth have experienced the fullness of it.

Teaching And Unionism Basically Incompatible

(Reprinted from Florida Times Union)

The intensifying national issue of independent professional status versus trade unionism for teachers is expected to be a topic of discussion today when 4,000 are members of the Florida Education Association gathered in the Coliseum for their annual pre-school meeting. Dr. Stephen J. Kneerich, a professor at Florida State University, is scheduled to address the group on current challenges to professional leadership.

Certainly no more serious threat exists than the plans of some labor leaders to use their vast economic and political powers to bring the public school teachers of the nation into a single union.

One of the most hopeful educational developments in recent years was the vigorous response teachers have given this challenge.

The existing professional organizations for teachers have shortcomings, but not among them, thank goodness, is a desire to be transferred into a labor union. Instead, the vital distinction in education between professionalism and unionism is recognized.

There are several important differences. Labor unions, including those for teachers, insist upon the right to strike as a final weapon to reach their goals.

By striking, as the nation learned from New York City, teachers put their own interests above all others. On the other hand, a basic principle of the professional teachers' organizations, including the FEA, is an agreement that members must place the welfare of students above all other considerations.

All teachers, whether they are members of professional organizations or not, have a responsibility to the entire community. This is the children of all the people, farmers, businessmen, clerks, welders and all. The teacher's responsibility to public service for cannot be carried off if the teacher is allowed to segregate the society.

From Rags To Riches

built canals which were completed in 1915 for a three-fold purpose: drainage, transportation, and lowering of the lake level. Now the lake (Okoschoobee, largest body of fresh water wholly within the United States), kept going down. Boats couldn't get up the creek. So armed with a permit from the War Department, Stowe dredged up an artificial island, bulkheaded round about in the open lake at the junction of the channels leading to the Hillsboro and the Ft. Lauderdale canals.

This was about half a mile from Torry and north of little Rabbit Island, or otherwise "The Dump," he erected a store and a half store building and moved his store and post office.

On a cold night in the fall of 1917 Stowe celebrated by holding a dance, complete with fiddler and jugs of "custard apple dew." But the Post Office kept the name "Torry Island."

His first helper was Fred Himmelswright, but Fred, who owned a concession on the boardwalk at Audubon Park, N. Y., became fed up with this wilderness life and returned north the following spring.

Stowe then got William H. Badger to help him out. Badger, tall, lank, moustached and religious, and one of Belle Glade's original settlers, was appointed postmaster July 20, 1918. Meanwhile though, Stowe got sick and sold his store to the Ft. Lauderdale Mercantile Company. The new manager and postmaster was Dewey Hutchins, now in Jacksonville. Hutchins is the brother-in-law of the late John Pickett, surveyor, and Bennett Bell. Thus by a quirk of selling out a store Hutchins became the first official postmaster of the Hillsboro settlement.

Mail Boat Twice A Week

Activity on the lake shore was beginning to boom and stores were opening here and there. Most of Dewey's business was transacted twice a week on the nights the mail boat arrived, when lots of the customers would call for their mail and buy a month's supply of groceries at the same time.

Hutchins was doing right well with his business until he learned that Leatherman, a mainland, was thinking of applying for a post office. That led to have scared his mule, for if Leatherman got a Post Office, he'd naturally have a store as well. Then he'd get mainland customers who now were beginning to outnumber those on the lake bottom and islands. The settlers down the canal didn't want this to happen either. First, they want the store and post office in their own backwoods; second, they didn't want them to be on the second Hillsboro settlement. (now Chosen).

Of course, at that time neither place had a store — heck, neither one even had a name, as both were just called Hillsboro Canal Settlement. But Dewey handled the dilemma might slick and bid he rushed to Ft. Lauderdale (if you can call a boat ride rushing), got the O. K. of his bosses Heimburger and Kittredge, came back with a barge loaded with lumber and merchandise and built a two bit branch of Hillsboro in front of Badger's house, then got a tipsy rowboat so the customers could ferry themselves across the canal.

Mail Delivery Along Route

Badger then got permission to deliver mail to all those living between the post office and his store, and since he was no better provided, he made the daily trips between both places — a mere three miles each way — in his rowboat. So that was the beginnings of a branch post office and water RFD and it certainly squelched Leatherman's hopes for a post office for another year or two.

But nothing goes smooth in the Glades for long. In 1920 we had that baccanous flood. Rains deluged the summer months, brought the lake level way up, then in December a wind tide from a northwester drowned all the lake bottom farms. It also drowned the tomatoes of Kittredge and Heimburger, who had a big acreage on Rabbit Island. With its customers out of business, the Mercantile closed the store, but only Uncle Sam could close the post office. Although most of the mail was for those folks down the canal, the mailboat stopped only at the island store. Lee Bradock was assistant postmaster, and Hutchins had to stay around for six months longer so Lee could get his mail. Hutchins didn't waste his time, however, what time he wasn't hunting or fishing with the Lee boys on Torry, he was busily courting Emily Bell, assistant postmaster at Bacom Point, whose father was one of the Glade's first county commissioners.

About that time, bless goodness, Mr. Badger gets an official notice that Torry Post Office was to be closed. It didn't say a crying word about a substitute. So that's when both canal settlements went to work. But before either could apply for the post office, they'd have to find a name for it. In Leatherman's precinct Mrs. John B. Penny suggested the name of "Chosen," for after all this was the Chosen Place, and that was a Bible name besides, and so it was adopted.

Two Post Offices — Everyone Happy

Down in Meyer's hotel a blackboard was set up and all sorts of names put down. For a while it seemed the favorite name was "Badger," until Meyer himself proposed the name "Belle Glade" and after all, he said, "this is the Belle of the whole dam Glades," so Belle Glade it was.

But didn't I say that nothing here ran smooth for very long? When Badger learned who was to decide which place would get the office, it looked like his cause was lost. The postal official, like Leatherman and most of the Chosen people, even the Dunkard set, and that would never do. However, it turned out all right. This inspector, with the wisdom of Solomon, no one could be offended, recommended not one, but two post offices, and who cared if they were only a mile apart?

On April 1, 1921 they were officially opened and named, and everybody was happy once more. Chosen's first and only postmaster, Isaac W. West, rigged a little room beneath his elevated residence until he could get his store constructed. He held the job until January 1, 1926 when he retired and the office was closed, for, of all reasons, "government economy!"

First "Inland" Post Office

Badger's office at first was his canal bank store, until C. E. Riedel laid out his townsite. Then Badger built a two story store building where the main street intersection was to be. It was a fine building sure enough, but some folks thought the old man might be losing his mind. It was a good 250 feet from the canal, the only store in the whole blamed Glades not built at the water's edge. But he was justified when the road was built during 1923 which connected Belle Glade with West Palm Beach, and here Badger presided until he died in July, 1929 in the Post Office that was almost named "Badger."

Now the mailboat came up daily except Sunday from Ft. Lauderdale in late 1924 and until 1927. The mailboat stopped at South Bay where Harold Riedel tied it either by boat or cart to Belle Glade. In the meantime some enterprising soul built a road to Loxahatchee and another enterprising soul started daily sightseeing tours from West Palm Beach and then by boat to Belle Glade. This gave first class mail service to Belle Glade from West Palm Beach.

Post Office Survives '28 Storm

Then the GREAT STORM of 1928 hit the area, leveled virtually everything in Belle Glade but about three buildings, and when the holocaust was over, there stood Badger's store and Post Office, intact even though it was off its pinnings! Badger's store was sold to F. L. Rutledge and later was known as the old Rutledge building which in 1958 gave way to progress, was moved to the negro quarters for a rooming house and the new Rutledge Motel built on the site of Belle Glade's second post office building site.

After Badger died, Mr. Badger's son, Warren, became acting Postmaster until April 8, 1930 when the third postmaster took over — George P. Farnall. He got his official permanent appointment in May, 1930. Growing pains prompted the postmaster to seek newer and better quarters. The office still officially was listed as a fourth class one in 1931 when Riedel built a fine building on Avenue A now known as the Claude Jones building; the postmaster got brand new equipment and everything was moved lock, stock and barrel to the new location, in 1932.

On July 1, 1930, the office officially moved up into third class and stayed that way for 10 years when on July 1, 1940 it was upped another notch into second class clerks were under Civil Service, and the postmasters were finally also covered.

Growing Pains Begin

By 1950 it was apparent that something had to give for the new building occupied in 1932 just didn't quite last the 20 expected years, and a new site was located on the corner of S. E. First Street and Avenue D, and on November 1, 1950 new quarters were occupied that would again last until 1970, so the Post Office Department thought.

In the meantime you just couldn't keep progress down — in 1949 a complaint from a patron that he had to go to South Bay to get his mail cause there were no Post Office boxes available and he didn't want to stand in the general delivery line that never had an end, was the straw that broke the camel's back and prompted the Postal Inspector to recommend City Delivery service. This went into effect on April 1, 1950.

Negotiations here also bogged down and it wasn't until April 26, 1962 that construction began of the present modern, fully air-conditioned building which is being dedicated today. We again moved, lock, stock and barrel, on August 1, 1962.

In the meantime Belle Glade's second postmaster, Mr. Farnall, retired on August 17, 1961. He was succeeded by Mrs. Rosa A. Nash, a career postal employee who had been with the office since 1939 and was assistant postmaster for 23 years. Congressional approval for permanent appointment came on March 28, 1962.

From rags to riches? Even from 1930 to 1962 we seem to know!

Dr. Winchester Speaks To USDA Club On Nematodes

Guest speaker for the Everglades USDA Club's first meeting after summer vacation was the Everglades Experiment Station's newest scientist, Dr. James A. Winchester. The club resumed its meeting with a luncheon at the Community Center, Canal Point on Wednesday, October 10.

Dr. Winchester, a native Floridian, received his three degrees from the University of Florida, Gainesville, in Entomology, and spoke to the club about nematodes in general.

Root-knot nematodes, of which most people in the Glades are at least vaguely familiar, have been known to be destructive to crops since before the turn of the century. Relatively little attention to the development of control measures was devoted by agricultural experiment stations until about 1925 to 1930. In fact, Nematology as a field of its own, relative to those of entomology, pathology, orthology, etc., was not recognized until the late 1940's. It was shortly after 1950 that agricultural experiment station directors recognized plant-parasitic nematodes as a regional problem and set out to do something about it. In 1953, there were about a half dozen trained nematologists in the South and by 1957 approximately 20. While the number of trained scientists in this field is ever increasing, there is still a critical shortage. There are therefore very few people to have Dr. Winchester join our crops of scientist ever on the search for better agricultural practices.

Churches of Christ Scientist

What the relationship of God and man can mean in the solution of everyday problems will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Doctrine of Atonement" include these words of the Master, Christ Jesus: "I and my Father are one" (John 10).

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read this citation (p. 18).

"Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage. His mission was both individual and collective. He did life's work aright not only in justice to himself, but in mercy to mortals,—to show them how to do theirs, but not to do it for them nor to relieve them of a single responsibility."

Dr. Fred Vining will be the evangelistic speaker at revival services at the First Independent Missionary Baptist Church of Chosen, Oct. 22-31.

Dr. Vining is a graduate of the Missionary Baptist Seminary, Little Rock, Arkansas, and pastored churches in that state until moving to Clearwater in 1952 where he served as pastor

Bishop Santa Maria Of Philippines

Is Rotary Club Visitor Friday

The Right Reverend Horatio Santa Maria, secretary General of the Philippine Church and 2nd ranking Bishop in the Philippine Islands will be welcomed by Rotary President Louis Kirchman. The bishop was visiting Rotary member Fr. L. D. Lossing.

St. John's Episcopal Church, was the host to a visiting dignitary from the Iglesia Catolica, the Episcopal Church, Philippine Independent of the Philippine Independent Catholic Church) this past Friday. The Right Reverend Horatio Santa Maria, Secretary General of the Philippine Church, accompanied by his Chaplain, Fr. Eugenio Loreto, spent the day touring the Glades and viewing the life of the Episcopal Church here.

At the last General Convocation of the American Episcopal Church, in 1961, after many years of fruitful exploration in every phase of their mutual lives, the Episcopal Church concluded a concordat of full communion with the Philippine Church. Bishop Santa Maria and Fr. Loreto are spending time presently in the American Church observing the facets of American religious life and worship, that the two churches might grow more familiar with one another. Among the highlights of his visit to Belle Glade were tours through the cane and vegetable fields, observing the high degree of mechanization there as well as seeing the packing and processing and facilities for vegetables.

Capping his visit were a luncheon engagement with the Belle Glade Rotary Club, and a guided tour through the new Belle Glade Co-op. The Sugar House mill just reaching the completion stage of construction. Since sugar cane is a staple industry of the Philippines, the Bishop was most interested to see the "last word" in sugar mill construction and operation. He also expressed his gratitude and pleasure in the warm manner in which he was received everywhere, noting that his expectations of "southern hospitality" were met in every way he could have imagined.

Upon his departure, he noted that he wished that some of our Glades people might visit the Philippines one day in return, to enjoy the same spirit of friendly exchange that he received.

In modern times, Sukkos is celebrated with special hymns and prayers of thanks. In homes and synagogues, which are decorated with autumn fruits and flowers, worship services take place. In many temples, the first day of Sukkos is devoted to a service of consecration for youngsters who are beginning their religious education.

On this day, Harvey completed the first and most important stage of his Hebrew education under the able tutelage of Mr. Jack Stafenham, Hebrew school teacher. The Temple was decorated with palms and palmfronds and hung with fruit, symbolizing the harvest of his education. A display of orchids decorated the foot of the pulpit. The traditional wine and honey-cake was served at the conclusion of the service. Immediately following, buffet luncheon was served to out-of-town guests at the home of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hy Pearlman.

A reception followed later that evening at the Royal Palm Inn. A large, lighted ice-carving of the Star of David was used as the centerpiece on the buffet table. The individual lighting of the candles by each member of the family and a folk-dance were highlights of the evening. About 150 guests attended the reception. Many lovely gifts were received. Out-of-town members of the family included: Mrs. Belle Friedman, Detroit; Mr. Barney Rosenblatt, Ft. William, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. David Saker, Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. Al Pearlman, Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. W. Sadikoff, Miami; and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pearlman, Miami.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST INVITES YOU TO GO SHOPPING

"One of these days I must go shopping. I am completely out of self respect. I want to exchange some self-righteousness I picked up the other day for some humility which they say is less expensive and wears better. I want to look at some tolerance, which is being used for wraps this season. Some one showed me some pretty samples of peace, we are a little low on that — and one can never have too much of it, and I must try to match some patience that my neighbor wears. It is very becoming on her and I think it might look well on me. I must look around for some inexpensive every day goodness. It is surprising how quickly one's stock of goodness is depleted."

We would like to assist as you go on this type of shopping trip. You are always welcome at any or all of the services.

Hours of meeting are:

Sunday Bible Study — 10:00 a. m.

Worship — 11:00 a. m.

Children's Class — 7:00 p. m.

Worship — 7:15 p. m.

Wednesday Bible Classes — 7:00 p. m.

Accessories . . .

Can Make A Room

Accessories can make a room distinctive - or ordinary. Just as you can ruin food with too much seasoning, you can clutter up a room with too many accessories.

Miss Mary Todd, Home Demonstration Agent, says accessories have a purpose. Many are both useful and beautiful. Some are purely decorative. Useful accessories include lamps, books, mirrors, ash trays, pillows. A purely decorative object, such as plants, flower arrangements, figurines or wood carvings, is good to use in a bare spot to add a touch of accent color or interest.

If you have a good many accessories, do not try to use all of them at one time. Store some away and change them with the season, for special occasions, or from room to room to make new arrangements.

Consider the time and effort required to care for home accessories when you are selecting them. Articles which are ornate, fragile, and those which soil easily are usually impractical.

Ask yourself these questions before you place any accessory in your room: Is it suited to its purpose? Does it really work? Is it well made and of good material? How will it look five years from now? Is it beautiful? Is the design of the object simple, well-proportioned pleasing in color as well as texture?

If the answer is "yes" to all of these questions, you will have made a wise purchase.

Our Public Health Nurses....

'The Ladies in Blue'

By Evelyn S. Barlow
Glades Field Supervisor

The Palm Beach County Department of Public Health offers Public Health Service to "all of the people who live in all of the houses" of the Glades area, through the health centers of both Belle Glade and Pahokee.

The Belle Glade Herald has offered itself as the instrument to bring to you an understanding of the true meaning of Public Health as a joint community endeavor.

Part of that endeavor is furnished by "Women in Blue" or Public Health Nurses. It seemed well to start this series by first introducing the new Public Health Nurses of the Glades, and later the nurses who have been here a longer period of time. These nurses offer a variety of professional experience and education which serves as a firm foundation for a modern application of Public Health Nursing.

Each nurse is assigned an area and serves in school and hospital.

Gordon of Columbus, Ohio Public Library adds . . . "Books are the receptacles of the world's recorded knowledge and truths, from the treasured record of the ancient peoples to the disclosures of the latest finding in science. When you read to know, when you use your public library, you are fulfilling a basic life urge—to understand, to know, and to share, the recorded experience of all mankind."

GRIFFIN'S WAY by Frank Yerby. This is the author's finest novel in many years. The setting is in the South and the story is concerned with a man who will long be remembered as one of the master story tellers' most appealing heroes. The story is told against a background of a land torn with conflict in the days following the Civil War, when the Klu Klux Klan planted fiery crosses on every hill, and terror reigned among both black and white . . . Once again Mr. Yerby has written a superb historical novel filled with the pace and excitement his million of readers expect.

COME WITH ME HOME by Gladys Hasty Carroll a warm and vibrant novel set in the New England countryside, tells an exciting and very timely story about Rosamond Lucy, her friends, old and young, her neighbors of various nationalities and religion, and strangers who seek her out. Truly Miss Rosamond is on a highroad between the past and the future. Readers of G. H. Carroll's earlier books, including the now classic "As the Earth Turns," will need no second invitation to begin "Come With Me Home."

Back in Ben Franklin's Time...

... producing a newspaper was most often a relatively simple, one-man operation. Materials, as well as methods, bore only the faintest resemblance to those used in our modern newspaper industry.

Today, we sometimes take our newspapers for granted, forgetting the enormous efforts that make them possible — the many talented people necessary to write and edit them; the vast news-gathering networks; the printing techniques and complex equipment developed over the years.

On this, the occasion of National Newspaper Week, Southern Bell is happy to join with others throughout the country in honoring our great and growing newspaper industry.

EXCITING! GO '63 CHEVY II

SPUNKY NEW WAGONS THAT LEAD LONGER, HAPPIER LIVES

What a new kick you'll get out of going places in this one! And what a solvent feeling you'll get as the savings on upkeep mount! There's a full line of models, including three wagons. Basically, we've kept Chevy II's liveliness and roominess and easy loading ways. Kept its crisp looks, too (with a bit of freshening here and there). The changes we've made weren't for change's sake, you see—but for yours. Just for a sample: the brakes are self-adjusting. The new Delcotron generator gives you more electrical reserve power and helps your battery reach a vigorous old age. The Body by Fisher beauty lasts longer, too; it pushes rain and wash water down through the rocker panels (where most rust begins!) in a clever new flush-and-dry system. The ride is smoother and quieter because of a large number of small improvements we've made. And things are a lot plusher inside. Now you've read this far, haven't you? Isn't that good evidence that Chevy II is made for you? The clincher will come when you take the wheel at your Chevrolet dealer's.

See four entirely different kinds of cars at your Chevrolet dealer's... Chevrolet, Chevy II, Corvair & Corvair.

Bridgewater College Wins First Football Game In Three Years

Franklin Laman Barbee, a freshman at Bridgewater College, Bridgewater, Va., writes his mother Mrs. J. D. Barbee that there was a big celebration on Saturday night, after the Eagles won their first football game in three years. Frankie is not on the team but is in the band and took in the celebration.

The Richmond-Times Dispatch carried the story as follows: Bridgewater College won a football game and in these days and times that is cause for celebrating. That the Eagles defeated a team which won only once last year and hasn't won now in three outings this season, no one could care less. All that really mattered was the Eagles had finally become heroes and had beaten the Grays 14-6. In all it was a bell-ringing affair. Bridgewater has a tradition which says the school bell is to be rung after every athletic victory. Anyway after having not won after playing 19 games they sound up for last time by ringing the bell continuously until 3 a. m.
